Speaking Where The Bible Speaks; Silent Where The Bible Is Silent

November 11, 2012

"What Will You Give Me?"

Poor Judas! He thought he was looking out for his own happiness. Dominated by desire for gain, he was willing to sell Jesus.

Approaching the chief priests, Judas asked,

"What will you give me to betray him to you?"

The bargain was finally struck for thirty silver pieces. Judas was convinced that the only equation that really adds up in life is: Getting equals Happiness. Belatedly he discovers the error of his equation.

The money was now his, but so was the misery. Filled with sorrow, he hangs himself and goes to his own place.

Straight from history comes this living testimony of the depths to which the love of money can reach and the unhappiness which follows. Why, oh why, couldn't Judas believe his Lord? After all, Jesus said, "Happiness lies more in giving than in receiving" (Acts 20:35, NEB). But Judas was not the type of man to walk by faith. He had to learn the hard way.

Is the tragedy of Judas your tragedy? How many of us, like Judas of old, are still asking, "What will you give me?" Marked by inordinate self-love and seeking, we go into a frenzy in our desire to obtain. We long for new homes, better cars, more appliances and financial security. Rule number one is, "Get the money."

And rule number two is like unto it, namely, "Keep the money."

Have you ever wondered about the possibility of Jesus being right? What do you suppose it would be like to feed the hungry, clothe the naked and care for the homeless in your community?

Wanted: Men and women of faith, willing to accept the words of Jesus at face value.

The reward: Happiness.

HELP WANTED

A sign was hung in an office window. It read:

Help wanted.

Must type 70 words a minute.

Must be computer literate.

Must be bilingual.

An equal opportunity employer.

A dog was ambling down the street and saw the sign. He looked at it for a moment, pulled it down with his mouth, and walked into the manager's office, making it clear he wished to apply for the job.

The office manager laughed and said, "I can't hire a dog for this job."

The dog pointed to the line: "An equal opportunity employer."

So the manager said, "OK, take this letter and type it." The dog went off to the word processor and returned a minute later with the finished letter, perfectly formatted.

The manager said, "Alright, here's a problem. Write a computer program for it and run it."

Fifteen minutes later, the dog came back with the correct answer.

The manager still wasn't convinced. "I still can't hire you for this position. You've got to be bilingual."

The dog looked up at the manager and said, "Meow."
