ARE YOU A CRACKED POT

A water-bearer in India had two large pots, each hung on one end of a pole which he carried across his shoulders. One of the pots had a crack in it, but the other pot was perfect. The perfect pot always delivered a full portion of water at the end of the long walk from the stream to the master's house. The cracked pot arrived only half full.

This went on daily for two years with the bearer delivering only one and one-half pot of water to his master's house.

Of course the perfect pot was proud of its accomplishments. But the poor cracked pot was ashamed of its own imperfection and miserable that it was able to accomplish only half of what it had been made to do.

After two years of what it perceived to be a bitter failure, it spoke to the water-bearer. "I am ashamed of myself, and I want to apologize to you." "Why?" asked the bearer. "What are you ashamed of?"

"For the past two years," the pot said, "I have been able to deliver only half my load because this crack allows the water to leak out as we travel. You are not getting the full value for all your efforts."

The water-bearer felt sorry for the old cracked pot, and in his compassion said, "As we return each day to the master's house, I want you to notice the beautiful flowers along the path." Indeed, as they went up the hill, the cracked pot took notice of the sun warming the beautiful wild flowers on the side of the path. This cheered it some, but at the end of the trail, it still felt bad because it had leaked out half its load.

The bearer said to the pot, "Did you notice that there were flowers only on your side of the path, but not on the perfect pot's side? That's because I have always known of your leak, and I took advantage of it. I planted flower seeds on your side of the path and every day while we walked back from the stream, you've watered them. For two years I've been able to pick these beautiful flowers to decorate my master's table. Without you being the way you are, he would not have this beauty to grace his house."

Each of us has our own unique flaws. In short, we're all a bunch of cracked pots! But if we will allow it, the Lord will use our flaws to grace His Father's table!

Tim Woodward

Email from Paris (rec'd March 18, 2016)

Dear Joe,

Greetings from Paris, how are you doing and Donna ? for the last two weeks the electricians are working on redoing the electrical wiring of the whole building downstairs and afterward upstairs, he needed to be down since it no longer to standard and was very dangerous and if an accident would happen we would not be covered by the insurance company. I finally got a new car it is hybrid Toyota automatic I just got it yesterday attached is the photocopie of the bill, of course the French government get 20% taxes on the cost of the car. the police are on high alert with the ISIS in France and BELGIUM , couple days ago they arrested 4 Islamist that were planning on an attack in Paris , so FRANCE still on state of war with Isis and the police are chasing all terrorist where they may find them. the car in $ cost 27533.80 as I have said the French government get 20% of that amount. another word $5506.60. that's a socialist country for you. love Roland
