The High Road

by F.L. Booth

The road I've traveled the past few years
 Is broad and easy but full of tears.
 It beckons gaily, yet brings no hope
 For peace of mind or a way to cope.

It says so subtly, Come follow me,
I'll take you places you want to see.
 The road leads nowhere, and paved with lies,
 Deceives the heart and destroys the prize.

Now over yonder there lies a road
 That's built with promise to ease the load.
 The way is narrow and sometimes steep

Where mountains rise up from canyons deep.

There's joy and blessings for those who dare
To tread its pathway each step with care.
The sun shines brightly and flowers bloom,
While birds sing sweetly dispelling gloom.

I'll pray for courage to change my course,
The Lord forgives and provides the source.
My family beckons and points the way,
Their love will follow my steps each day.

I'll chart the high road that winds above,
The Lord calls softly with tender love.
I'll take the hand He holds out to me
And trust His wisdom to set me free.

TO GIVE AN ACCOUNT: NEVER ENOUGH

(Written by Ron Carter November 2013)

A friend of mine was working for a company that decided to invest in an amusement park. After a few years, the company withdrew from the project. They came to the conclusion that no matter what they added for the excitement of their customers, every few years they had to offer more— something more exciting.

No matter what it is, it seems that when an organization attempts to offer more to the people, it will never be enough. We can see this in the religious world today, including the church. But many of the denominations are beginning to realize that the more they try to entertain their members, the more the members expect.

Not only that, but the people seem to be forgetting the reason they are there in the first place. The worship time was actually never intended to be entertaining. In fact, it was never intended to appeal to what they want. It was designed to give man what he needs and for the pleasure of God. “For am I now seeking the favor of men, or of God? Or am I striving to please men? If I were still trying to please men, I would not be a bond-servant of Christ” (Galatians 1:10). “But just as we have been approved by God to be entrusted with the gospel, so we speak, not as pleasing men, but God who examines our hearts” (1 Thessalonians 2:4).

When elders lose their way, attempting to give people what they want, they have forgotten who they serve. There is nothing in the Scriptures that says elders are to give their members what they want. Paul summed it up by writing “So then, my beloved, just as you have always obeyed, not as in my presence only, but now much more in my absence, work out your salvation with fear and trembling: for it is God who is at work in you, both to will and to work for His good pleasure” (Philippians 2:13-14).

We need to be reminded that souls are involved, and someday we will stand before God and give an answer to Him for our decisions.
